

Eagle Roofing Products Expands Roofing Components Offering with Arched Battens

A raised batten designed to prolong the life of the tile roof system by creating ventilation beneath the roof tile, promoting energy saving airflow and facilitating drainage.

RIALTO, Calif. (PRWEB) June 13, 2018 -- Eagle Roofing Products has announced the nationwide launch of Arched Battens, an integral part of Eagle's Ventilated Roof System. This full wood batten, with arched openings, elevates roof tiles to increase the air cavity and facilitate air flow.

“Arched Battens serve a dual purpose of providing a thermal barrier to the roof system, while also preventing water damage to the underlayment and roof deck,” said Tyler Allwood, Director of Business Development. “They provide countless benefits to the tile roof system, such as insulation in hot climates, ice damming prevention in colder regions, and for areas that experience frequent precipitation, Arched Battens allow tiles to dry out faster, reducing the growth of naturally-occurring pollutants, like bacteria, algae and mold.”

The use of Arched Battens ends the need for elevated metals, eliminates issues with brittle plastic and eradicates the need for batten extenders.

Arched Battens are now available to customers nationwide in either natural wood or borax treated wood and include highly visible nail targets for easy installation.
